Advent Given New Meaning In Death

By Paul Wilken

Undoubtedly the biggest news story of the year, provided that nothing more newsworthy takes place during these next 17 days, is the event which shook our nation three weeks ago.

The assassination of President Kennedy was a traumatic event of national and worldwide proportions.

Quite a few comparisons could be drawn between the President's death and the birth which we celebrate at the conclusion of Advent.

For example, one could effectively compare the difference in the amount of publicity these two events received, one being reported throughout the world in an hour, the other being announced to some shepherds in a field.

Or one could compare the prestige of these men, one well-known throughout the world, and the other spending his thirty-some years in relative obscurity.

Both of these differences could be compared quite effectively with the difference in the ultimate importance of these two men for the history of the world.

Instead of the event of the assassination itself, let's focus our attention on the unique situation which the event left in its wake. As was said before, it was a traumatic experience. Our nation was shocked and stunned.

A general soul-searching and self-examination took place which permeated our society, even to the Wartburg campus. We asked each other and ourselves how this could have happened here of all places.

We wondered if some how we were responsible for men such as Lee Harvey Oswald. The national conscience was offended and perplexed. It was possibly the most sobering period in our nation since Pearl Harbor was attacked over twenty years ago.

It is this unique situation which has significance for us during the Advent season. The Advent season has always been intended as a time of preparation for Christmas.

This is what it has literally been, with most people occupied with Christmas shopping, sending Christmas cards, sales campaigns, parades, etc.

Such things have their place, but there is an aspect of preparation for Christmas which is more important and which is well-exemplified by the period following President Kennedy's death.

A soul-searching and wrestling with oneself like that which followed his death must also be the experience of the Christian during the pre-Christmas season. In this way he will become best prepared to receive and accept the Christ and His birth for what they are.

For how many of us is this a part of the Advent season? Or do we feel it isn't necessary? What can prompt us to submit to this soul-searching?

Two particularly disturbing questions in the gospel of Matthew may serve as spiritual stimulants: "For what good is it for a man to gain the whole world at the price of his own soul? What could a man offer to put back his soul once he has lost it?

How many of us have really considered the implications of these questions? Perhaps these questions should be proclaimed throughout our campus during the Advent season to prompt us to sit down and try to figure out just where we're going in life and what has value.

This is something positive that we can learn from this tragic event, a deeply spiritual preparation for the coming holiday. Does such an examination of ourselves take some of the joy out of the pre-Christmas season? It may.

But it may also point the way to a fuller and more satisfying observance of this birthday anniversary.

We might be surprised by where it will lead us. Is the Jesus whose birth we will celebrate the one we will turn to at the end of this examination?

Students Unhappy With Minority Decision But Remain Apathetic Toward SB Meetings

By Nelson Meyer
Student Body President

A week ago Tuesday Wartburg witnessed an event which government is designed to avoid. We saw a very few students make a decision, and this week the majority was forced to live with it.

At the last student body meeting, Campus Chest made its annual appeal to the student body. However, this year some new ideas for raising money were suggested, and this apparently threw everyone off the track.

It was at this meeting that the co-chairmen, sophomores Nels Beckman and Tony Ingle, presented the proposal for each student's sacrificing one dish at each meal for a week.

In this way Mrs. Grube would donate the money she had saved by not preparing that dish to Campus Chest. However, to be a success, all students must participate in the plan.

The plan was accepted by an overwhelming 87 per cent majority of those present. The only problem was that less than 8 per cent of the student body was there to vote!

When the results were known, many students began to complain. Many said this plan was unfair because they didn't know anything about the proposal; yet somehow they had found out that "convo" was not required.

I might also add that about 200 ballots were printed; yet only 50 were at the meeting. Therefore, there were at least 150 people on this campus who knew the specific proposal, but these people still did not have enough concern to vote.

Why can a few carry such weight at Wartburg? It is because our government is based on the principle of representation of the individual. Everyone has an equal chance to voice his opinion.

This is why our constitution states, "The will of the student body shall be supreme in all matters of student government." (Article VIII, Section 1.)

Many schools do without student body meetings, but I hope we keep them because I think they are a guarantee of the student's rights.

But apparently our students are not very concerned about their rights.

Every time anyone passes up an election or student body meeting, he is implying, "I don't care what you decide about this proposal or any proposal which might come up. I'll go along with whatever you say,"

This is exactly what happened at the last student body meeting, and as a result, everyone who ate in the caf this week donated his vegetable. Can this be done?

It can if we have a representative government together with a constituency which doesn't care what happens. And this is what happened at Wartburg.

Spirit Of Christmas Comes In Many Ways

By Kathryn Becker

It isn't so much where you are, but how you look at it. It isn't so much who you are, but how you feel.

Perhaps it's different for each person. Maybe it's something that can't be explained in words. It must be shown in expression, in mood.

For some it comes early. For some late. For others not at all.

Becker

It comes in many ways:
snow
carols
cookies
family
mistletoe
togetherness

It's the type of thing which must be shared to be truly felt. It can bring strangers together and close friends closer. It may be shared with:
children
friends relatives

There is no age requirement. It comes to young and old in equal amounts. By giving, one receives without bounds.

It's the scurrying to finish shopping, the taste of fruit cake, voices raised in song, glasses raised in toasts, eager youngsters, getting together with old friends, forgetting petty differences, trimming the tree, sitting by a cozy fire, drawing closer to parents.

The material world can make the true meaning of the event forgotten, or it can enhance the enjoyment and fulfillment of one of the greatest seasons of the year.

The spirit of Christmas is free to all. May I share it with you?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Wartburg Student Suggests Mud Path, Sidewalk Memorial

Dear Editor:

I have a unique plan for the administration of Wartburg College to consider, and hope that plans will begin now so that it may be enacted when warm weather returns. It is concerned with better motivation of students to and from their classes.

First of all, I would suggest that all sidewalks be removed from the campus and be used to erect a gigantic "Sidewalk Memorial" on the Luther Hall Mall. This would remain as an everlasting memory that Wartburg College could do without sidewalks.

Secondly, the bare ground area left by the removal of the sidewalks should be enclosed. For this I would recommend a seven foot high government fence to be placed on the borderline of the former sidewalk.

This would give students the feeling that the college is interested in their security and thereby everyone would have respect for the college in developing this new project.

Thirdly, all of the janitors could daily be summoned and given the added responsibility of daily watering the area within the fence so as to make sure that the ground is most suitably nourished to withstand the beating of each day's walkers.

Fourthly, for those who somehow seem to get their feet muddy while walking on the highly sensitive ground, I would suggest that the college install automatic shoe-washing machines at every entrance to every building.

After all, since the janitors will be spending considerable time watering the walking grounds, they will not have time to wash building floors.

I as Student Welfare Chairman feel an obligation in this recommendation. I am sure that the new mud paths with the security fences will be much more attractive that the paths worn by the campus-cutters of yesteryears.

Sincerely yours,
Robert O. Braun.

Feud Continues Over Caf.

Dear Editor:

In reference to last Saturday's disparagement entitled "Malady on Campus," I would like to offer my humble criticism. I would like to comment on this letter criticizing the new cafeteria plan suggested in a previous article.

The first pertains to "the danger of losing a mealbook."

How does one expect to meet the responsibilities of life if he cannot handle such elementary ones as carrying a wallet or purse, completing assignments or accounting for a mealbook—not to mention a driver's license, draft card, activity ticket, etc.

The expense of printing perforated tickets could be alleviated through an additional charge for the mealbook. I can't see how a problem of such "magnitude" can present a formidable barrier in the consideration of a cafeteria plan.

The criticism presented that "an uncertainty of budget and increase in overall cost would exist" can also be resolved.

An uncertainty and continuous fluctuation of budget will always exist as long as the institution supporting this budget continues to expand and increase its facilities. As we will all readily admit, Wartburg is no exception.

There was mention of the present condition of the building as a factor towards the quality of the food.

How can this be an acceptable factor when steps to investigate an alteration of the cafeteria existed as a plank in the platforms of last year's Student Body President candidates?

No such "building conditions" existed at that time.

As to the "nasty disease" which was so prodigiously ticketed to the previous letter, I can only say that if suggestions by students who take an interest in affairs appear to be symptoms of a "disease," I hope this disease spreads.

It has been, is and always will be "insertions of foot into mouth" which open the way for new and possibly better ideas and CONSTRUCTIVE criticism.

Robert Fetherolf.

Pres. Gives Greetings

Amidst all the tragedy—the sorrow—the confusion—the turmoil and the tears of the past weeks there resounds the Christmas message: "Rejoice, and again I say rejoice! The Lord is at hand." Perhaps this year more than for many years past, Christmas becomes more meaningful to millions of people in the United States. Christmas and the birtb of our Savior give us renewed assurance that the eternal God has not forgotten us, but that He loves eacb individual with an everlasting love. "I bring you good tidings of great joy whicb shall be to all people, for unto you is born a Savior, Christ the lord!" So let us rejoice and be glad, even thougb our hearts may be filled with sorrow and concern.

May your Christmas be filled with unalloyed joy and happiness and may God's richest blessing be shed upon you throughout the coming year.

Faithfully yours,
C. H. Becker,
President.

'Christmas At Wartburg' Tomorrow Features Choirs, Band, Bell Ringers

"Christmas at Wartburg" will be presented tomorrow in the Chapel-auditorium at 4 p.m. and again at 8 p.m., according to Miss Helen Wright, head of the Art Department.

This year's theme, "From Heaven Above," will be expressed by all participating groups, including the Handbell Choir. The program is divided into three sections, each expressing a different motif in the different verses of the chorale.

The narration by John Gill, Speech Department, will also support the theme.

Art forms will also be related to the three motifs. The first section is titled "Incarnation" and will be enhanced by subtle variations of colors.

"Redemption" is the title of the second. Brilliant colors will be shown in the forms of three triangles illuminated from inside as our lives are illuminated from inside by the birth of Christ.

According to Miss Wright, 75 cylinders of all sizes and metallic colors will come down to symbolize the third section, that of jubilation. It is titled "Gloria in Excelsis Deo."

There will also be a 15-foot silver triangular form with 30 points. It will symbolize "from heaven above the earth below."

Students responsible for the stage work are freshmen Dianne Western, Roger Fuerstenberg, Loretta Petig; juniors Pearl Liecker and Roger Sherman; and senior Carol Johnson.

Also the 70 students of the Art Department must put in at least one hour toward the mechanics of the production.

As last year, the Concert Band, Castle Singers and Wartburg Choir will make up the program. Band will play "From Heaven Above" by Bach, "Cathedral Chorus" by Reed, "Salvation Is Created" by Tschesnokov and "Chorale and Alleluia" by Hansen.

Castle Singers will sing from behind the skrim this year. Their numbers will be "O Come, Little Children" a German Carol arranged by Stanton, "Go We Now Caroling" by Sutcliffe, "From Heaven Above" by Schein, "A Christmas Carol" by Kodaly and "Sing in Excelsis Gloria" by Pfautsch.

Choir will sing "Wachet auf, Ruft Uns Die Stimme" by Distler, "Holy Radiant Light" by Gretchaninoff, "Three Kings" by Willan, "Sing Heaven Imperial," by Byrd and "From Highest Heaven" by Bach.

Entire assembly will join the three groups to sing the theme chorale, "From Heaven Above."

"The theme emphasizes the reality of a God that does not remain in a heaven that is remote, but becomes concrete and specific in this world," said Pastor Diers.

"The effect of such a revelation is to make it possible for the world to come into its own, to be whole, to be fulfilled — set free to be itself. In response to this, the world breaks forth in praise and gratitude before the revelation that makes this possible."

The committee members in charge of the program are Dr. James Fritschel, chairman, Dr. Edwin Liemohn, head of the Music Department, Robert Lee, Music Department, Walter Fredrick, Wartburg business manager and Duane Schroeder, director of public information.

Also included are Mrs. Florence Hertlein, dean of women, Pastor Diers, Miss Wright and Gill.

College Science Hall Committees Discuss Facilities, Plans Saturday

Committees for the Science Hall met in a joint meeting last Saturday to discuss plans and facilities for the future building.

After Pres. C. H. Becker's opening address, time was allowed for members of various committees to present basic concepts of the Science Hall project.

Later in the meeting the Rev. Merritt Bomhoff, assistant to the president, head of the Special Interest Committee, presented the financial goals and various ways in which these goals may be reached.

Robert Gremmels, alumni director, also gave a report on the plans of the alumni and the part they plan to play.

Saturday afternoon, President Becker spoke on methods in attaining the goals set forward.

As plans stand, needs include a 250-seat auditorium, which will serve as a general-purpose auditorium as well as a special event science auditorium.

The building is designed to house biology, chemistry, physics, math and psychology. It will also provide storage space, research labs and classrooms.

Ground floor will be devoted generally to psychology with labs, shops and experimental equipment available. Ground floor will also feature animal quarters.

First floor will be devoted to biology, with labs, classrooms, storage space, research labs and offices included in the general layout.

Second floor will house physics and math with the same general makeup as first floor.

Third floor will be devoted to chemistry with research labs and general labs, as well as classrooms and lecture room.

A lecture room, with demonstration equipment, will be located on each floor.

The roof, too, will provide something new. Space will be provided for a planetarium, and an observation platform will be set up for astronomical study.

Dr. John Chellevold, dean of faculty, says that this building will be a great advance for Wartburg College, but the big thing now is the funds. A three-year drive will be conducted, but the bope has been expressed that construction can begin in 1965.

Girls' Dorms Open Sunday

OPEN HOUSE WILL be held in the women's dormitories tomorrow, Sunday, from 5 to 7 p.m., between the two performances of "Christmas at Wartburg." According to Mrs. Margaret Hemmingway, assistant dean of women, hostesses will be on each floor to assist the visitors.

Wartburgers Say German Christmas Much Like U.S.

By Sharon Briggs

In Germany there are no "Santa Clauses," no reindeer and no stockings hung by the chimney. Other than these differences, though, Christmas is almost the same as it is in the United States.

Jim Zeller and John Ferguson compared their Christmas in Germany last year this way. Jim, a junior from Beulah, N .D., and John, a senior from Owatonna, Minn., were both students in Germany in the Bonn Exchange Program.

"An interesting thing about Christmas in Germany is that they have two days of Christmas," John commented. "The first day is a day for the family and friends in their homes.

"The second day is more a day of celebration — parties, dances and get-togethers."

John said that he spent a very enjoyable Christmas Day at his German roommate's home. In the morning guests came to visit, and wine and cookies were served. At noon he ate Christmas dinner with the family and relatives.

"It was very delicious," John said with a smile. "Some kind of roast." Later in the day they went on a hike to an old restored castle outside Koblenz.

Jim said he attended a high mass at a cathedral Christmas morning and a children's program at church in the afternoon.

On Christmas Eve, the Christmas tree is put up and the candles are lit. Christmas carols are sung and gifts are exchanged, as bappens in most American homes on Christmas Eve.

"Another interesting thing," John commented, "was that all the people wbo bad come from the East Zone, Communist Germany, or who had friends there, put little red candles in their windows on Christmas Eve."

German people also celebrate New Year's Eve in almost the same manner as the American people. They, too, usher in the new year with parties and gay celebrations.

Jim commented on an experience which impressed bim very much.

"At midnight we all gathered to watch the fireworks — a thing completely new to me and very fascinating."

Then Jim added, "We stayed up all the rest of the night dancing and celebrating with many friends!"

However, there was not much celebration on New Year's day in Germany. Jim commented, after just describing his New Year's Eve, "I slept on New Year's Day."

JIM ZELLER and John Ferguson, 1963 exchange students to Bonn, prepare Christmas decorations with Wartburg's Bonn student, Bernd Samland.

An interesting thing about tbeir city decorations is that they have white lights only. There is very little color in the Christmas decorations.

This is certainly different from the brightly colored Christmas scene in American towns and cities.

Jim and John both felt that perhaps the Christmas season is not so "commercialized" in Germany as it is in America.

Jim didn't think the true emotions of Christmas were any different.

"At the church services I attended," be explained, the sermons expressed the same meaning of Christmas that the Americans feel.

Ferguson then added, "I would say that the German people take the Advent season more seriously. You have a real feeling of expectation."

Only religious hymns are sung during Advent; Christmas carols are confined to Christmas Eve.

Jim summed up their experiences by saying, "I actually didn't miss being bome for Christmas because it was so much the same. There was so much going on, and the German people were very nice."

Although they enjoyed their Christmas in Germany, Jim and John said that they are both looking forward to spending Christmas at home this year.

Lueck Spends 6 Weeks In Hosp.

By Linda Stull

Dennis Lueck, freshman, from Seymour, Wis., is finally back at Wartburg after a six-week stay at Mercy Hospital in Waverly. According to him, it wasn't so bad as he had first anticipated.

"Cards and visits and gifts helped a lot," he said, "and I would like to sincerely thank everyone for them."

Dennis' long seige started about the first of November, when he was hit playing speedball in physical education class. He was immediately taken to the hospital, where it was determined that he had broken a bone in his thigh.

After the leg was pinned, Dennis started five long weeks in traction. Last week a cast was put on the leg, and he was released from the hospital.

Said Dennis, "I wouldn't have been able to keep up with my classes at all without the help of my instructors."

Still managing to keep up with 12 hours of credit, Lueck spent a large part of his time in the hospital studying. Through study sheets and visits from his professors and a lot of work on his own, he hopes to catch up before finals.

Dennis' parents haven't been able to see him often because of the long distance involved. He was alone for Thanksgiving, but said, "I was really glad in a way, because I got a lot of much-needed studying done."

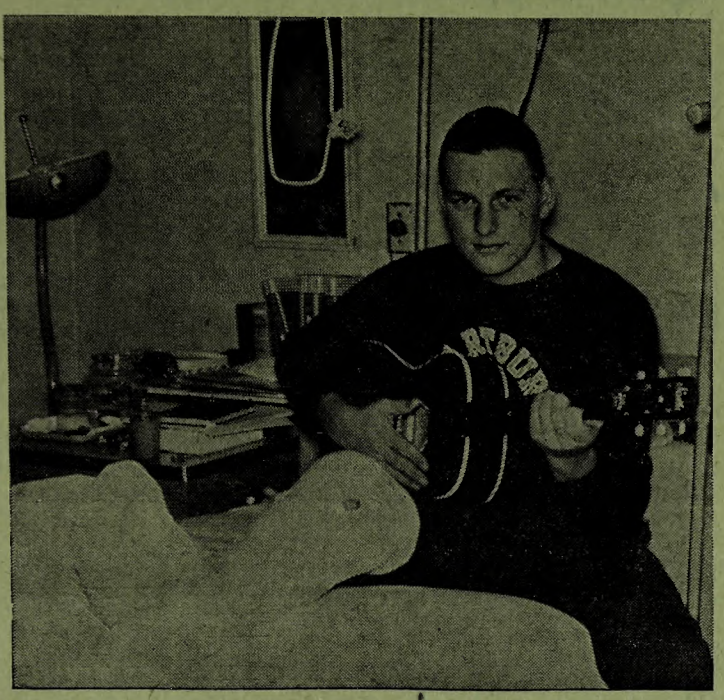
Besides studying, there were other pastimes which helped the injured freshman occupy long hours in the hospital. Shortly before his accident, he had purchased a guitar and he spent some of the time learning to play it.

"One day," said Dennis, "the lady down the hall told one of the nurses to tell me she thought I played the violin very well!"

A pre-theological student, Dennis feels that his stay in the hospital will help him in his role as a pastor. Watching other patients' reactions to hospital life, he says, should prove beneficial when he works with them.

Dennis won't be in full action for quite some time. The cast on his leg will create some problems in going to classes, especially those on the second and third floors. He will be on crutches for a long while.

Although the cast won't be removed until sometime in January, the thought doesn't seem to bother Dennis too much. He is, in his own words, "Just glad to be back and looking forward to seeing everyone again."



DENNIS LUECK, freshman, strums a few chords on the guitar he learned to play during his six-week stay in the hospital.

Four Attend Conf. Held In Story City

"We Drink This One Cup Separately" was the theme for the Iowa Student Ecumenical Conference held last weekend at Riverside Bible Camp, Story City.

Goal of the conference was to promote the understanding of the different denominational traditions employed in celebrating the Lord's Supper.

Students from a number of Iowa colleges listened to three lectures by the featured speaker, Dr. Reginald Fuller, professor of New Testament Languages and Literature at Seabury-Western Theological Seminary, Evanston, Ill.

Lectures presented by Dr. Fuller and other speakers formed a basis for understanding the contrasting Holy Communion traditions. Detailed discussion of the lectures was carried on in the assigned discussion groups.

The Rev. John M. Gregory, chaplain of the Catholic Student Center at State College of Iowa, Cedar Falls, led the group in Bible study.

At the Fireside discussion Saturday evening, the Rev. William Friday, former associate minister to the Wesley Foundation, Iowa City, introduced the topic of the Protestant Monastic Society in Taize, France.

The Rev. Douglas Haviland and the Rev. Wes Anderson, pastors to students at Iowa State University, Ames, presented the Episcopal and Baptist views of the Lord's Supper, respectively.

A business meeting was also conducted at the conference. Following Jim Steinbrecher as president will be Del Carpenter from S.C.I., nominated from the Methodist Student Movement. Jerry Stoll from the LSA Movement will be vice president and treasurer will be Betty Wickwiere.

Those attending the conference were Barbara Lings, Norma Gray, former Wartburg student Cleo Eliason and Dr. Robert T. Dell.

Cutting Campi

By Norma Gray

Do you ever wonder if college is what you really want? Do all of your classes seem impossible? I know that you agree that a degree would give you more monetary advantages in a job, but do you wonder if it's worth the fight?

If you can answer "yes" to these questions, then The Central Ray, college newspaper of Central College, Pella, has some helpful hints for you. Try these suggestions and see if they help:

1. Have a good mental examination once a week. Check yourself for signs of indifference, laziness, a 'slid through' attitude, over-relaxation, petty and trivial concerns.

2. Be sure you are operating on a normal rate of meals and sleep.

3. X-ray your study habits for possible lesions due to nervous disorder. You may be studying much more and enjoying it less because you have a low rate of concentration.

4. Choose one — and stick to one — therapeutic course in singing, sketching, committee work, tennis, etc. Then "ace" it.

5. Weigh your personal goals and remeasure success so that you are sure you know its real value.

6. Meet someone who is more interesting than you are; then find out why. It might interest you to know that this Slump usually attacks sophomores. Occasionally it bothers freshmen and juniors. When it attacks seniors, its usually termed 'Panic.'"

The faculty at Concordia College, Moorhead, Minn. is trying something new. They call it The Teachers' Intramural Head-Knocking Society.

This description of the Society appeared in the Concordian, college newspaper there. "Anyone on the faculty of Concordia can be a member if he follows these conditions: It is vitally important that all teaching be done as well as is humanly possible.

"Teachers should make efforts — explicit, careful and thoughtful — to improve their classroom work. They can benefit from observation and analysis of their work by other teachers, if this is done in an atmosphere of mutual trust and without any threats either expressed or implied."

The members of this new society visit each other's classrooms; when they feel they have enough information concerning their fellow-professor, they criticize him. The chief aim of this society is to eliminate classes that students feel they can afford to miss.

St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn. seems to be concerned with the threat of war. The heating tunnels and basements of several campus buildings are now in the process of being equipped for use as fallout shelters. Use of the "caves" as shelters is also being proposed.

The plan consists of two separate networks, one serving the north side of the campus, the other the south side.

It seems that Dr. Loren Halvorson, speaker for "Faith in Life Week" at Augsburg College, Minneapolis, Minn., had something to say to each of us.

He said, "Because God claims us, we have an identity. Because our neighbors claim us, we have a mission in the city. Because God claims the future, we have a hope."

Topic Of Architecture Continues In Convo

An illustrated lecture, entitled "The Revival of Architectural Thought in the Midwest," will be presented by Richard D. McConnell and Ray D. Crites, architects, at Tuesday's convocation.

In keeping with the theme of the month, "Architecture," Crites and McConnell will have a display of mounted photographs, and a model will be arranged in connection with their presentation.

The firm of Crites and McConnell became a partnership in 1960. Richard McConnell, 41, has his bachelor of arts in architecture from the University of Nebraska and his master of architectural engineering from Iowa State University.

Other member of the partnership, Ray Crites, 37, received his bachelor of architecture from Iowa State University and has done graduate work in interior and furniture design at Iowa State University. Both architects belong to Tau Sigma Delta, architectural scholastic honorary.

Their firm has received seven of a total of fourteen state AIA (American Institute of Architects) design awards, including the First Honor Award twice in the last two years. They have also received five national design awards, including one First Honor.

Some of their work has been published in various magazines, such as "Life," "House and Home" and "House and Garden."

Thursday's convocation will feature Dr. Bernhard Christensen, St. Paul, Minn., who will speak at the Christmas convocation of worship. Dr. Christensen is the former president of Augustana Seminary and College in the Twin Cities. The choir will also sing for the service.

For the week following Christmas vacation, Tuesday's convocation will have as speaker Dr. Frank Seiberling, head of the Art Department at the State University of Iowa. His general topic will cover the area of architecture as a reflection of personal values and how personal life is touched.

Deadline Extended

"There are not enough materials to hold a contest for the Castle this year," is the report of Castle Editor Jackie Lohr.

In the hope that the reason students have not contributed is that they have not had time to write, the date has been extended to Jan. 8. This will give students a chance to write during Christmas vacation. It is also an opportunity to search through old papers to find earlier creative efforts.

Featured speaker at convocation on Thursday will be Dr. A. R. Kretzmann, pastor of St. Luke's Church in Chicago. Art director of Crest magazine, Dr. Kretzmann is active in many professional groups concerned with church art and architecture.

Unity To Be Chapel Theme

Chapel will be presented in a series called "Christian Unity" during the week of Jan. 6-10.

"We will take the week to explore the problems of Christian unity," said Dr. Robert Dell of the Christianity Department. "Part of it will probably be a report of the Iowa Student Ecumenical Conference at Story City," he added.

Sophomores Norma Gray and Barbara Lings, who attended the conference along with Dr. Dell, will help with the presentation. Senior Jim Steinbrecher will also participate.

Services will begin on Monday, Jan. 6, the Festival of Epiphany. This is the time when the manifestation of God in the whole world is celebrated. This is especially relevant to a study of the relationships among denominations.

We're brimming with good wishes and thanks to all our wonderful friends.

8 Students Are Conducting Tests In Senior Experimental Class

Students in the Experimental Psychology class are currently running psychological tests under the direction of their instructor, Dr. W. G. Fruehling.

The eight class members, all seniors, are working in pairs on these experiments. Subjects for the tests are students in both sections of Psychology 201.

Steve Smith and Durwood Thomas are performing an experiment to find the effect on reaction time of a half grain of caffeine given to each subject. The other six students are using a mirror-tracing apparatus in their work.

Phil Truckenbrod and Orv McElfresh are conducting an experiment concerned with studying the effect of the amount of practice on bilateral transference in a finger maze tracing situation.

James Steinbrecher and Gary Bergamo are studying transfer of training and more specifically, the effects of practice on transfer. The object traced is a six-pointed star.

A Galvanic Skin Response is used to discover if there is an increase in perspiration as the complexity of the task increases in a third mirror-tracing experiment conducted by Nelson Meyer and Kathy Waughop.

Candle Service To Be Monday

"Lighting a Candle in the Dark" has been chosen as the central theme for this year's Christmas Candlelighting service presented by members of Chi Rho, pre-theological society. The service will be held Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the Chapel-auditorium.

Included in the program will be hymn singing, scripture reading and an anthem sung by the Chi Rho choir. A sermonette will be given by Dr. Karl T. Schmidt, head of the Religion Department.

Following the presentation of the sermonette will be the candlelighting ceremony, in which the entire audience participates.

"This year, Chi Rho hopes to provide a service for the Waverly community as well as for the student body," said Jim Reents, program chairman.

Religious Material Is Now Available

Christian Growth Committee of the Student Congregation has begun a resource file of religious material consisting mainly of leaflets and small booklets.

This material is for use by both organizations and individuals. It might be used for devotional material, for reference for term papers or for group discussions.

Donna Meyer, junior committee chairman, urges students to take advantage of this material. One of the devotional booklets, "We Are the Hollow Men," consists of short thought-provoking, devotional-type articles.

For a longer worship service, there are various dramatic services.

For study and discussion there are such articles as "The Christian and Contemporary Literature" or "The Christian and the Academic Community: the Creative Tensions of Faith and Learning."

Brauer To Talk At '64 Grad.

Dr. Jerald C. Brauer, dean of the Divinity School of the University of Chicago, will be the Commencement speaker for the 1964 graduation, according to Phil Truckenbrod, senior class president.

Prize-Winning Balloon Cards Return

Cards from Homecoming balloons have been coming in from the Midwest, and students with lucky numbers will be able to win prizes.

Winners have been chosen according to the farthest distance from which a card has been returned.

First-prize winner, who will receive $3, is stub number 198, returned from Orvile, Ind.

Bob Bone, Homecoming chairman, said that the man that returned it was really concerned about the importance of the card and wanted a reply quickly as to its meaning.

Winner of the second prize, who will be given $2, is number 167 from Finley, Ill. Third prize is number 124, returned from Zwingle. The prize is $1.

Students possessing any one of these stubs may contact Andy Schmidt, junior, for their prizes.

Grinnell Drops Knights 23-10 In Wrestling Opener Tues.

By Chuck Ditto

Grinnell put the damper on Wartburg's debut in the 1963-64 wrestling season last Tuesday. The grapplers from Grinnell literally "pinned" a 23-10 loss on the Knights.

The last four matches, out of the eight divisions, ended in pins, with Wartburg coming out on top only once

Senior Bernie Masker brought home half of Wartburg's points when he pinned Ken Clymer. Wartburg's only other point-getters were senior Roger Damrow, who drew with Bill Barnes and sophomore Mike Tower, who decisioned Will Van Horn.

Coach Johansen was particularly impressed with freshmen Bob Bye (130 pounds) and Terry Tellefson (177 pounds).

Said Jo, "Both Bye and Tellefson looked good, even though they got beat."

Johansen will have a really good chance to see what his boys can do today, as Wartburg entertains Augustana (Ill.) and Westmar at 1 p.m. and 3 p.m., respectively. Both of these meets will be counted as separate dual meets. Johansen says he plans to use as many of his wrestlers as possible.

Here are the results of the Grinnell meet by weights:

123 — Damrow (W) drew Barnes (G) 2-2.

130 — Strubler (G) decisioned Bye (W) 5-2.

137 — MacKnight (G) decisioned Hutson (W) 13-7.

147 — Tower (W) decisioned Van Horn (G) 5-1.

157 — Masker (W) pinned Clymer (G) 3:25.

167 — Miller (G) pinned Brown (W) :51.

177 — Lewis (G) pinned Tellefson (W) 7:31.

Hwt. — Mitchell (G) pinned Stoakes (W) 4:03.

It may take three arms to do it, but junior Ardis Janssen gets the ball back across the net to Marlene Boyken, also a junior. Wartburg women participate in competition Wednesday evening as part of the Women's Athletic Association's program.

Faculty women and wives of faculty members also compose a team competing with the students.

In addition to volleyball tournaments, the women are also conducting a table tennis tournament.

SCI Tips Wartburg

Wartburg's freshmen Knights were clawed to defeat by the Panthers from SCI last evening in a game that could have gone either way.

Fans saw SCI push past the hosting Knights in the second half to win by a ten point margin, 71-61.

With 12 minutes 58 seconds remaining in the game, Dave Burrack tied the visitors at 43 all. The Panthers scored another bucket but this time it was Arlen Kruger who was on hand to even it out at 45-45 and again at 47 all.

SCI, backed by the free-throwing prowess of Brower and Wanties, pulled away from the Knights and went on to emerge victorious.

Scoring honors for the Knights and the game went to Arlen Kruger with 18 markers. Gary Ludvigson finished with 11. For the Panthers it was Franklin in front with 15, followed by Wanties and Brower with 11 and 10 respectively.

Spikers Pack Punch In Volleyball Victories

By Mike Becker

Starting with the I.M. conference, in which Wartburg could really develop into a power, things have been progressing as expected. Ketha House is still the dominant power in the league; it has yet to lose a match in volleyball.

Becker

It was also undefeated in flag football, which leaves Ketha without a loss to its record this year. Under the able tutelage of Daniel Knobloch, the fine spiking of Leon Carley and Alfred Buenning and the powerful serve of Rog Kittleson, the Ketha men appear to be a tough team to beat.

In the senior circuit, the top team appears to be a tough Off-campus outfit, led by a freshman spiker par excellente, Aivars Zosulis, who seems to be able to spike from the back row with ease. He is supported by a fine crew of spikers and set-up men. This could be quite a match between these two powerhouses.

Top spikers in the league besides the aforementioned seem to be Dave Lange, Cliff Cameron and Coach John Kurtt. Top set-up men appear to be Coach Dave Olson and Andy Schmidt.

It was sort of a shock this week not having my column nationally syndicated by the Waverly Democrat, but of course the New York Times more than made up for that.

Turning to the varsity sports of basketball and wrestling, I might say that the seasons appear to have started as expected. Both teams have opened with losses, the basketball team having dropped three in a row and the wrestlers losing their first meet. In their first loss, three of the grapplers were pinned while one grappler won via the pin route.

The basketball team seems to be having trouble placing the round ball through the cylinder called the basket. It seemed at the beginning of the year that the trouble would be the defense, but the defense has proved very adequate with the trouble being in shooting powers.

The wrestlers seem to be spending much of their time on their respective backs looking up at the ceiling. But I think that with a few more meets tucked under their belts for experience, they're going to be a really good group of guys. And I also hope the basketballers will start firing the ball through the hoop with a little more regularity.

The freshman basketball team, which came here supposedly as one of the most poised in years, has shown that it can score but seems to lack what the varsity has an overabundance of. In one of my future dissertations, I shall prepare an article on the frosh the fans forget.

Iowa Wesleyan Invades Wartburg—Is Repelled

By Keith Hendrichs

Sparked by the blazing accuracy of backcourt ace Dick Ridout, the Knights devastated Iowa Wesleyan in a ragged battle 81-61, to register their initial triumph after three reversals.

Wartburg scrambled to a 10-2 margin in the opening moments, a lead they never relinquished, and staved off the Tigers to roll up a 42-33 advantage at halftime.

Ridout fired in a barrage of 20 points to ignite the host squad. The Knights dominated the boards and outmaneuvered their hapless rivals to maintain a comfortable lead throughout the first frame.

Wesleyan capitalized on the sluggish offense of Wartburg to narrow the gap to 42-39 early in the second stanza, but a landslide of buckets by Sathoff, Shudlick and Cameron padded the edge to 52-39.

In the ensuing wildness the Knights made less errors, and, with a few flashy spurts, turned the duel into a rout to pound the Tigers into submission with their fifth straight setback.

The balanced Wartburg attack, aided by strong depth from the bench, turned in their first high-scoring burst of the campaign and despite inconsistent moments, gave promising evidence of future success.

Ridout ripped the nets with 28 tallies. Cameron with 14, and Lowell Syverson with 11, shared double-figure honors with the senior guard. Harold Shudlick and Al Buenning connected for 8 apiece.

In loop action last Saturday night, Wartburg erased a 23-9 Central margin, narrowed the gap to 42-43 and then collapsed as the Flying Dutchmen overpowered the staggering Knights 78-62.

It was the third consecutive reversal for the Black and Orange, and the second conference setback, having dropped a 60-54 verdict to the Statesmen of William Penn in the league curtain-raiser.

Central roared to an 11-5 lead in the early moments, and then pounced on the Knights' feeble attack to take a commanding 23-9 edge midway in the first half to gain the needed momentum.

Buckets by Cameron and Shudlick early in the second half enabled Wartburg to crawl within a single point of the heavily favored host school, 43-42. Central came alive and clicked with bull's-eye accuracy to thwart the Knights' bid and roll to a 78-62 conquest.

Al Buenning paced Jaspers' crew with 18 tallies, aided by another reserve, Cliff Cameron, who contributed 14 to the losing cause. The front-line men, Syverson and Shudlick, dumped in 8 and 7, Ridout 5, Zietlow and Medlang 3 each, and Hemenway and Sathoff 2 apiece.

Perennially powerful Parsons, defending conference titlists, invade Wartburg tonight with a rugged unit that should prove to be a tough test for the Knights.

Zehr Takes Turkey Home

Jerry Zehr, sophomore from Flanagan, Ill., took first place in the 1963 IM turkey run.

Zehr took an early lead in the half-mile run over the campus, and he maintained his lead throughout the race. He received a turkey from Fred's Super Valu as first prize.

Gerald Meister, freshman from Madison, Wis., came in second a few yards behind Zehr. Meister won a record album from the Music Corner.

Third place was taken by Jim Reents, junior from Sibley. Reents won a duck from Rollie's Superette as his prize.

Thirty-three students in all entered the turkey run, held on Nov. 26.

The race started in front of the gym, circled around Luther Hall, up to the College Hill Pharmacy, down Eighth Street past the Little Theater, around Wartburg Hall and back across campus to the gym.

Contestants were all massed together at the start, but they soon strung out into a long line with Zehr in the lead all the way.

The 25 prizes were donated by various Waverly merchants.

Ketha House, Off-Campus Emerge League Champions

By Dan Knobloch

The Ketha "machine" rolled on this week as the Ketha team downed Married Men in two games to win the National League I.M. championship. Ketha won the first game 8-3 and the second game 15-6.

The Trojans were a fired-up ball club when they took to the court and pulled ahead early in both games. The spiking of Leon Carley and Al Buenning proved to be the deciding factor. Paul Zietlow turned in a good performance for the Married Men.

Ketha finished with an 8-0 record, and Married Men ended 7-1. Both teams will participate in the inter-league playoff next Thursday night.

Off-campus took the American League title with an 8-0 record. Off-campus beat Grossmann Basement two games out of three Thursday night to clinch its title. Aivars Zosulis and Ted Giese were the outstanding players in that match.

Off-campus and Faculty, second-place team, will meet Ketha and Married Men next Thursday. All four teams are well organized, and there should be some thrilling games played.

Jane Voigts, sophomore, was named news editor, Gary Olson, freshman has been appointed sports editor, and Norma Gray, sophomore, will serve as feature editor. Ad manager will be freshman Karen Lilly.

Business Office To Mail Billings

College Business Office will again send out advance billing notices covering second semester costs. These billings, along with an explanatory letter, will be mailed out Wednesday, Dec. 18, to the parents of all unmarried students.

Married students will receive the notices in full on or before the date of registration for the second semester.

If any other students prefer to receive these notices personally rather than to have them sent to parents, they may pick them up in the office of the business manager of the college on Monday or Tuesday.

This system of advance billing was inaugurated last summer and it seemed to work out very well according to Walter Fredrick, assistant to the president in charge of business. It enabled students and parents to be advised of impending semester costs well ahead of the time of registration.
